- A medal to each member of the first three teams of each discipline.

2.6.2 The Challenge Cup “BEST NATION” in Rifle and Pistol - shooting

The Main Challenge Cup (a pair of ornate silver duelling pistols) was first presented to CISM by King Paul of Greece in 1957. In 1972, after the United States won the CISM Shooting championship for five consecutive years, they were awarded the pistols on permanent basis. In 1973, the United States proposed the pistols became the U.S. Army Challenge Trophy and placed them in competition for perpetual rotation for future Rifle and Pistol World Military Shooting championships. The silver pistols are awarded to the best nation counting the total score of the events under article 2.4.5 and 2.4.6 together.

Between two successive competitions, the winning nation has to take the trophy mentioned above in custody, and is also responsible for handing them over to the next organizing country upon arrival at the championship. The holder of the trophy must ensure that any outstanding engraving is carried out and is responsible for any upkeep costs.

2.6.3 Prizes in Rifle and Pistol - shooting

In addition to the official medals, the organizing country will present prizes of its own choice to each of the best shooters.

These prizes “Best shooter” are awarded to the 4 following best shooters by addition of the two individual results for

- .Best shooter 300m
- .Best shooter Women Rifle 50m
- .Best shooter Men Pistol 25m
- .Best shooter Women Pistol 25m

If the score is tied, then the higher score of the rapid fire match will decide in rifle 300m and pistol; in rifle women 50m, the higher score of the 3x20-match will decide.

5. SPECIAL REGULATIONS

5.1 GENERAL

The ISSF Regulations will be in force with the necessary modifications as mentioned in this article. The CISM Shooting Committee is empowered to decide certain modifications required by local conditions.

5.2 SHOOTING - EVENTS 300m RIFLE (MIXED and MEN)

5.2.1 In general, only standard rifles following the ISSF Regulations will be admissible both for the 300m Standard Rifle program and 300m Military Rapid Fire Rifle program. However, new participating countries will be granted the use of their military rifles, without telescope and bipod, for the duration of two years only. For security reasons, competitors equipped in this manner will be squatted on either side of the range.

5.2.2 Shooting - Regulations for 300m Standard Rifle 3 Positions

This program takes place according to the ISSF Rules and Regulations in force for the 300m Standard Rifle 3 positions program.

5.2.3 Shooting - Regulations for 300m Military Rapid Fire Rifle

5.2.3.1 Program

The 300m Military Rapid Fire Rifle-Program consists of a shooting event of 60 competition-shots divided into 3 positions of 20 shots each. Each position consists of 2 series of 10 shots and is fired in the following order:

Prone: 2 series of 10 shots each. Each series in 1 minute 30 seconds.

Standing: 2 series of 10 shots each. Each series in 2 minutes.

Kneeling: 2 series of 10 shots each. Each series in 2 minutes.

Before the competition begins, an unlimited number of sighting shots may be fired within a time limit of 12 minutes. The sighting shots can be fired in any position as long as the changing of positions does not disturb another competitor. After each sighting shot the marker must show the value and the position of the hit on the target. The competitor can observe the hits with the telescope.

Competitors will be given a minimum of 10 minutes between each position.

For each 10 shots (one series), a new target must be provided. Each series starts with the command:

"Get ready for the position (prone, standing, kneeling)", "Load your rifle".

After approximately one minute, the Range Officer will command: "Attention, three-two-one-fire". On "fire" all the targets are hoisted simultaneously to the firing position. The firing will cease with a 3 seconds long whistle tone. During the whistling (1 minute 27 seconds to 1 minute 30 seconds in prone position or 1 minute 57 seconds to 2 minutes in the other two positions), the competitors may fire. Each shot fired after the end of the 3 seconds whistling will be recorded as zero. At the same time the targets will be lowered.

Each series is fired with the odd number targets first, followed by the even number targets. Refire will be shot at the end of each position or the shooter may be resquadded at the decision of the Technical Jury. After each series shot in prone, standing and kneeling position, the targets are shown during 1 (one) minute to the competitor to allow him to observe the hits. The competitor is allowed to use a telescope during the entire competition. After the command „Attention“ is given, the rifle must be held in ready position (butt plate not set in) i.e. the butt plate must be visible.

5.2.3.2 In the Marking Pit

a. Sighting shots

As soon as the marker observes that his target is hit, he lowers the target, covers the hole with a transparent paster and overlays a contrasting paster to mark the position of the last shot. Then he hoists the target and indicates the position of the hit and shows the value. When all sighting shots have been fired after 12 minutes, the marker removes the sighting target from the frame and puts on the first competition target.

b. Competition series

When the pit receives the signal "fire" from the Range Officer, all targets are raised simultaneously. After receiving the signal "Stop firing", all targets are lowered immediately. After all targets have been visually controlled and the results have been written on the proper form, the targets are raised for 1 minute so that the competitor can see his target. The target is then removed and taken to the Classification Committee. The targets for the next series are placed on the frame and the Range Officer is informed that the pit is ready for the next series.

5.2.3.3 Penalties

a. If a competition is fired with fixed targets and a competitor should fire one or more shots between the command "Load your rifle" and "fire" or after the signal "Stop firing" has been given, he will lose the same number of the best hits on his target.

b. If a competitor fires one or more shots on a range with movable targets between the command "Load your rifle" and "fire", the shots are counted as part of his 10 shots series.

- c. If a competitor moves his rifle from the ready position to the firing position before the command "fire", he will first receive a warning. If repeated, he will lose 2 points from the score of that series.
- d. If a competitor has shot on a wrong target, he will only be credited with the hits found on his own target.
- e. The competitor, whose target has been crossfired by another shooter, will be notified of the high and the low score on his target. He then is allowed to accept either the low score or refire. The refire series will be conducted at the end of each position. The results of this new shooting cannot be either superior to the 10 best hits or inferior to the 10 lowest hits of the cancelled series.
- f. If a competitor fires more than 10 shots during a series, he will lose the same number of the best hits even if the target should not have more than 10 hits.
